

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A display device divides each frame into a number of subframes and displays one of the subframes after another. The device includes a correction circuit for correcting a subframe signal representing one subframe by reference to another subframe signal representing another subframe. Each said subframe is displayed in accordance with the subframe signal that has been corrected by the correction circuit.